THREE YEARS OF SEA SERVICE

S. L. Foster Brings Back Stories of War-Torn Europe.

FOOD SCARCITY RELIEVED

Has Been on Big Battleship and Made Several Trips Across. Here Rest of Week.

After three years in service on the high seas, S. L. Foster, first-class quartermaster on the United States ship Delaware is in Chattanooga visiting his brother, C. L. Foster. While young Foster has not been actively engaged in bottles on the figure line, duryoung Foster has not been actively engaged in batties on the firing line, during these three years in service he has visited in both London and Paris on his trips across. The Delaware has been engaged in keeping the "subs" away from the merchant ships or doing convoy duty.

When several admirals of the United States navy had conferred upon them the title of "Sir" the last week in June by Lloyd George, a special de-tail of fifty men from the navy was inspected by the king. Young Foster was a member of this detachment, and he says that it took place at one of the British ports on board an Ameri-

In his last visit to London the work of the American Y. M. C. A. impressed Mr. Foster more than anything else. He remarked that the great work being done there by the Y. M. C. A. has opened the eyes of the people. He referred to the "Eagle but," the big "Y" ferred to the Eagle but, the big 1 which has been erected in the heart of London in a big park, taking up a large city block. This building alone accommodates 30,000 persons daily. In addition to this, Mr. Foster says that they have a dormitory fitted up with 5,000 cots for the soldiers, and a place where lunches are served at all times.

Boys to be Entertained.

The member of the Delaware crew told of a movement which is on foot in England to entertain all of the American soldiers before they return to this country after the war is over. He said that the plans are being worked out by a large committee, and the program is to have the different citizens entertain from three to four Americans in their homes and have a mber of special entertainments for . Those who are willing to do have already started to listing heir names with the committee.

their names with the committee.

There is one place in London which is not open to the public, but which has been closed since the year 1915, and that is the Museum of History. Mr. Foster says that this is closed and is banked up with candbags. It is lo-cated in the central part of London. r. Foster referred to the great city of food overseas but he stated before he left the situation was better. He said that there are no lights on the streets after 10 o'clock at night and that the current connect-ing those in the homes is turned off midnight.

He spoke of visiting a large hospital over there right after the German drive which was launched on March 21, at which time there were 18,000 al-

He also mentioned that block after

Mr. Foster will remain in Chattanooga the rest of the week, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Foster, before going back to assume his duties on the Delaware. C. L. LOCAL BOY PAINTS STRIKING PICTURE OF CATHEDRAL IN FRANCE

He Describes It as "An Imposing Edifice, Beautiful in Architecture and Profoundly Artistic in Design."

A striking description of a French cathedral is contained in a letter just received by home folks from Paul L. Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy, who is "over there" doing his bit that the world may be freed from the curse of autocracy.

Young Murphy has a wonderful command of words and is an ardent lover of scenic beauty. He has used these qualities to splendid advantage in his word picture of the aged church. After viewing the interior of the edifice, he climbed 355 steps to one of the big towers and gazed upon the surrounding country. "I shall never forget the picturesque view I obtained from there," he wrote. "It was a becautiful day, a cloudless sky, and the sam was still high above the mountains. The mountains, hills and valleys were rife with the verdure of spring."

The description follows:

"Well, after a lapse of several days. I will again resign myself to writing to you. I will admit that I have had more time to write than I have availed myself of, but when one is in a strang and beautiful world, traveling extensively and moving from town to town and city to city, breathing the atmosphere of a war-wearied nation; also a nation of scenic beauty and antiquity, one is so engrossed in these countless things that sightseeing and observation take precedence.

"One of the most impressive features of the entire church is the sanctum, in which the statue of Joan of Arc rests. She is attired in white armor, representing the dress worn at Orleans. She is kneeling on a large block of marble, and presents every appearance of saintly beauty, and dignity that history teaches about her. The embellishments of this sanctum are in harmony with this central figure. Everything is spotless and sublimely beautiful."
